Important Health Warning About Playing Video Games

Photosensitive seizures

A very small percentage of people may experience a seizure when exposed to certain visual images, including flashing lights or patterns that may appear in video games. Even people who have no history of seizures or epilepsy may have an undiagnosed condition that can cause these "photosensitive epileptic seizures" while watching video games.

These seizures may have a variety of symptoms, including lightheadedness, altered vision, eye or face twitching, jerking or shaking of arms or legs, disorientation, confusion, or momentary loss of awareness. Seizures may also cause loss of consciousness or convulsions that can lead to injury from falling down or striking nearby objects.

Immediately stop playing and consult a doctor if you experience any of these symptoms. Parents should watch for or ask their children about the above symptoms—children and teenagers are more likely than adults to experience these seizures. The risk of photosensitive epileptic seizures may be reduced by taking the following precautions: Sit farther from the screen; use a smaller screen; play in a well-lit room; do not play when you are drowsy or fatigued.

If you or any of your relatives have a history of seizures or epilepsy, consult a doctor before playing.

ESRB Game Ratings

The Entertainment Software Rating Board (ESRB) ratings are designed to provide consumers, especially parents, with concise, impartial guidance about the age-appropriateness and content of computer and video games. This information can help consumers make informed purchase decisions about which games they deem suitable for their children and families.

ESRB ratings have two equal parts:

- Rating Symbols suggest age appropriateness for the game. These symbols appear on the front of virtually every game box available for retail sale or rental in the United States and Canada.
- Content Descriptors indicate elements in a game that may have triggered a particular rating and/or may be of interest or concern. The descriptors appear on the back of the box next to the rating symbol.

For more information, visit www.ESRB.org.

STORY

September 1998, Raccoon City, located in the American midwest, fell victim to a large scare outbreak. The cause was a leak of the T-Virus, a biological weapon developed by the international corporation known as Umbrella. People and animals infected by the T-Virus became ravenous zombies who attacked those unaffected. The highly contagious virus swept through Raccoon City with devastating results.

Fearing widespread exposure of the leak, Umbrella deployed the U.S.S. (Umbrella Security Service). Their mission was to destroy any evidence linking Umbrella to the outbreak.

Sensing the irregularity of the situation, the American government deployed its SPEC OPS team into Raccoon City. The SPEC OPS investigation and the U.S.S. mission were on a collision course, guaranteed to bring bloody results.

And so, the secret battle of Raccoon City was about to begin...
